Information security training

Thanks to an active presence on the security market in Luxembourg for over 10 years, Dartalis assists and advises the field of information security with a friendly and highly experienced team.

Today, we consider that, in the fast moving information security landscape, training and continuous education are cornerstone of effective security. Therefore, Dartalis has developed a portfolio of high-level technical and non-technical training programs which can be adapted to different kinds of audiences. Our strength is our flexibility and therefore we are able to provide training on demand.

Our team is multicultural, built with individuals from different origins. The first advantage of such a team is the human and social dimension that it adds. The second, equally important advantage is that we are able to better communicate with our clients. All training programs can be done in any of the four following languages: English, French, German and Luxembourgish.

You will be welcomed to our training facility which is setup with enough space, PCs and Internet access for up to 8 people. Lunch and refreshments are included for all training programs.

Let our years of experience, unique skills and research in security allow your company to breathe easier in the world of information security.
